Mordechai: A formula for dialogue will be found ARIEH O'SULLIVAN

DEFENSE Minister Yitzhak Mordechai jolted his heavy frame onto the ground and shimmied up behind sandbags for a view of Tulkarm from the outpost where two Border Police officers, members of the joint patrols, were killed by snipers last week. Gazing castward from the bulletriddled position, he was met with the calm and quiet that has swept the territories since the weekend. Surrounded by senior officers.

Mordechai said that all is not lost, and that a formula can still be found for dialogue with the Palestinians. But he warned that the full might of the IDF is at hand sbould violence erupt again. "There are forces deployed for every eventuality, which is something we don't want. We want to

Mubarak absent as Washington summit begins today

DESPITE Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's rebuff yesterday of President Bill Clinton's personal plea, the two-day White House summit, called to resuscitate the peace process following last week's clashes, will begin today without him.

As a result, Egypt, which Washington has always viewed as a bedrock of Middle East peace efforts, may be sbut out of a role in the event entirely.

State Department spokesman Nicbolas Burns told reporters that Foreign Minister Amr. Moussa would replace Mubarak, but following Burns' daily briefing, Moussa called Secretary

An Egyptian Embassy official stated that Moussa and the American peace team were still discussing "a formula that would allow the foreign minister to participate" late yesterday.

He termed the situation a matter of "protocol and substance," since, unlike Clinton, Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat, Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, and Jordan's King the stor a head.

US officials would not explain wby Mubarak refused to attend.

White House spokesman Mike McCurry said that Clinton called Mnbarak yesterday morning and "strongly encouraged" him to attend and had "hoped that be would come."

"But we also understand that there are other ways that he has been a significant participant in this process," McCurry said.

Christopher said it "would have been good if President Mubarak had been able to come," but Washington appreciated Moussa's coming. Egypt would continue to play a major rule in the peace process, he said.

ON the eve of today's summit, Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu pledged to bold "continuous talks" oo Hebron and other related issues until an agreement is reached.

Right wing flocks to Hebron rally

> THOUSANDS of Jews sang and danced in the shadows of the Machpela Cave in Hebron yesterday, giving their defiant answer to what is likely to be massive pressure on Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu to quiekly redeploy from Hebron. "Hebron is ours because of our fathers Avraham, Yitzhak, and Ya'acov," Hassidie pop star Mordechai Ben-David sang to a pulsating beat. The crowd sang back with feeling. As he sang, IDF soldiers, one behind a machine gun, stood guard atop the roof of the tomb. Ben-David's music, including a lively rendition of his hit soog "Moshiacb, Moshiach, Moshiach," reverberated off the tomb and echoed through the streets, empty of Palestinians because of a curfew.

"From this boly site, we want to send our best wishes to the prime minister to stand solid as a rock against the pressure of the Gentiles," Kiryat Arba Chief Rabbi Dov Leor told the crowd.

"Today, it is clear that anning Palestinian soldiers in Hebroo would be an act of murder," Hebron settlement leader Noam Amon said in an interview. "The government must not allow this, despite pressures from antisemites in Europe, the Arab world, and m the US administration."

Organizers of the rally - planned well before the recent violence in the territories, but heavily colored by the events - said that some 250 buses from around the country brought people to the cave. Many of the buses were not allowed into Hebron and let their passengers off at Kiryat Arba. The people then walked the 15

Peace Now spokesman Aloo Amon said the organization did not understand how a rally like this could be authorized while the city's Palestinians were under curfew.

As it turned out, the only security problem was trying to get on the buses at the Jerusalem International Convention Center, Hundreds of people pushed and shoved furiously to gain seats on them, nearly crushing one another. At the rally, MK Benny Elon (Moledet) denounced in the harshest terms what he called the "shame" of Joseph's Tomb, where six soldiers were killed oo Thursday after being attacked by armed Palestinians.

We need to wake up and ensure that the murderers are not allowed to stand on the hills here," he said, calling on Netanyahu not to agree to allow armed Palestinian forces in Hebron.

Asserts Hebron Jews would have faced pogrom if Palestinian Police had been deployed there

MARILYN HENRY

NEW YORK

THE Jewish community io Hebron would have faced a "pogrom" had the Palestinian Police been deployed there during last week's disturbances, Foreign Minister David Levy said yesterday, but he rejected the suggestion of disarming the police.

We have solid proof that the Palestinian Police were in fact behind the unrest," Levy told reporters in New York. "In those places where there were oo Palestinian Police, there was no unrest, nn victims.

"Just imagine what would have been the fate of the Jewish minority in Hebron if Palestinian armed pulicemen were on the spot. Having seen what happened next to Joseph's Tomb, wheo Israelis and Jews were surrounded hy Palestinian Police, I can only deduce that had that situation happened in Hebron, we would have seen a new pogrom."

When asked if the Palestinian Police should be disarmed, Levy said, "I don't think it's practical, and if it's not practical, it should not be suggested. It will just create some teosion that will harm the peace process."

Instead, he said, Israel insists UN General Assembly.

THE army has reinforced the already do their annual reserve guard around Jewish settlements duty guarding settlements and in Judea and Samaria, and has issued huodreds of emergency call-up notices to settlers to help bolster security there.

The IDF Spokesman confirmed that the IDF has been calling up scores of settlers over the past few days and that they would be deployed to help protect settlements.

"To create this unrest, including the shoot-out with the police, is a. grave breach of the agreement and the results have been tragic," Levy said, adding that "Israel will never agree to a situation in which its partners in peace regard opening fire as a means to sort out problems."

Levy also assailed as unbalanced the resolution, passed on Saturday by the UN Security Council, which indirectly called oo Israel to close the Hasmonean Tunnel. The resolution also did not specifically mention Israeli casualties. The council's vote was 14-0, with the United States abstaining.

We suddenly find ourselves in a situation where, with each move we make in Jerusalem, it is suddenly claimed that it is illegal," he said. ### Arafat, Mubarak seek Israeli assurances CAIRO (Reuter) - Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat, in revolt against US diplomacy, yesterday asked President Bill Clinton to postpone the Middle East summit set for today in Washington.

Arafat and Mubarak met for more than two hours in the town of Burg al-Arab, and Arah diplomats said they are still seeking assurances that the summit will result in firm guarantees of Israeli gestures toward the Palestinians. Later that day, the White House announced that Mubarak will not be attending the summit.

"I received an invitation from His Excellency President Clinton and I sent him my reply," Arafat told reporters after arriving in Cairo from Burg al-Arab.

Asked what his reply was, he said: "I can't say before he receives the reply ... The ical issues. They wanted to discuss security rately what has been agreed upon.' Earlier in the day, Arafat asked Clinton to delay the summit to allow more time for preparations. "Mubarak has joined Arafat in calling for a delay," a PLO official added.

"Mubarak wants to see a clearly defined program of action. And he doesn't want to get involved in an unsuccessful summit," said an Arab diplnmat close to the Arafat-Mubarak talks. "So far the Israelis are still being intransigent. Contacts are continuing, but the position is oot clear."

The idea was to agree on most everything here before going to Washington, but oo conclusions were reached," said Marwan Kanafani, an Arafat aide.

"The Israelis refused to agree on any politimportant thing is how to implement accu- issues. They are not serious, and Arafat has no desire to meet Netanyahu just for the sake of meeting him," added a PLO official.

Arafat left for Luxembourg yesterday afternoon for discussions with European Union officials. The PLO source said Arafat would then go on to Washington, but did not make clear when he would depart.

Arafat apparently wanted Mubarak at the session to back up his demands that Israel fulfill pledges made in earlier peace accords with the Palestinians.

Kanafani also indicated Arafat was hesitant about going to the summit.

"The picture yesterday was positive; we were flexible and gave our consent to the summit. The idea was participating in a five-party conference. We discovered today that there is another formula and President Mubarak might not attend the summit. This has worried us very much," he told Israel Radio. "Egypt and President Mubarak have a very important role in the talks. His role is essectial for getting out of the crisis."

In an interview published yesterday, Mubarak said that unless Netanyahu carries out agreements, the violence could break out again.

"The situation can explode again, as long the agreements and treaties are not implemented," he told the party newspaper Mayo. The latest events in the Palestinian territories are the natural result of procrastination in carrying out the articles of the agreements and the severe pressure on the economy of the Palestinian people.

"I have warned before, and I warn again of a new uprising hy the Palestinians if they are in despair or lose hope that they will obtain their rights, as enshrined in charters."

Shahal: PM's Washington trip will not solve anything

Netanyahu meets with Peres before leaving for summit

PRIM inster Binyamin Netanyahu met airman Shimon Peres vesterday with 1 re leaving for Washington and mornit the current political and securibriefc ty situ.

Peres ...id ..e expected the participants in the Washington summit would decide on the format of the debate between Israet and the Palestinians. He did not rule out the possibility that the talks would follow the format of the Taba talks, in which "the sides sit and talk until they reach an agreement."

But former internal security minister MK Moshe Shahal predicted that Netanyahu's trip to Washington would not lead to any breakthrough in the situation or solve the basic problem: the government's concept of the situation, which he called the real obstacle to peace

"I fcar we are on a course of almost inevitable collision because of this government's actions - without reducing the Palestinians' responsibility for the shooting because there is no alternative other than keeping the Oslo accords and no alternative to peace but war and confrontation," Shahal said. This government does not have a real chance of understanding the problems in the Middle East," he said. "These are people who are living in the past, for whom the Arabs were and remain an element with whom there is nothing to talk about and no space to live with. They have an anachronistic concept of the Middle East and with their very own hands are leading to the total destruction of everything built by the previous government in the peace process, which for the first time created a chance for Israelis and Palestinians to live

Shahal said that as much as Netanyahu would like to implement the Oslo accords, the political composition of his cabinet makes it impossible for him to carry out what was decided on by the previous government.

The problem is not how the prime minister appears on television," he said. "He can make a great appearance on CNN and other channels with double talk, but the situation on the ground remains stuck. In the 105 days in which this government has been in office, it has brought about a deterioration in every field."

Shahal cited Ministers Binyamin Begin and Rafael Eitan as examples of "those living in the past, who say there is no solution. This patronizing attitude, this lack of understanding, are not new and have brought past Likud governments with some of the same ministers to the war in Lebanon.

"Netanyahu's government is going in a very dangcrous direction. Therefore I do not believe that Netanyahu will find any solution in his trip to Washington. It's a very depressing and severe estimate, but this is the reality which the public created in its vote in the May elections."

No violence yesterday in Jerusalem's Old City

YESTERDAY was the first day since the new cxit to the Hasmonean Tunnel to Jerusalem's Old City was opened that there were no violent incidents in the Old City, police noted. Youths in the Shuafat refugee camp, Abu Dis, and Hizme threw stones at police, but no one was injured, police said,

Over 200 tourists visited the tunnel and more visitors - who were not permitted to enter because they had not made reservations - congregated near it. A group of 15 Meretz activists were among those not allowed to enter. Police escorted them from the scene due to claims that their shirts - on which the word Meretz was printed - were upsetting haredim praying nearby.

Dozens of Moledet activists also clashed with police near the tunnel. The Moledet protesters called for the tunnel's new exit to remain open and for Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu to not succumb to international pressure to close it.

Over 20,000 people attended the traditional Pricstly Blessing at the Western Wall yesterday morning without incident.

Police prevented about 15 Temple Mount Faithful members from entering the Temple Mount area yesterday morning. The group said it is planning to stage activities such as a march in Hebron and rallies in support of Netanyahu. (ltim)

Prior to the meeting in Washington The People of Israel Will Rally for Peace

One year ago, we lost Itzhak Rabin, who was assassinated because he sought peace. Now Netanyahu is driving the very chance for peace into the grave.

In one hundred days, Netanyahu has destroyed what it took years to build. And now, there is no peace, there is no security, and the smell of war is all pervasive. We, who supported Itzhak Rabin's endeavor for peace, will not let Netanyahu bury our hopes.

As the summit begins in Washington, we call upon all who support peace to join us in a demonstration of protest against the deteriorating situation and against the governmment's alarming policies Today, Tuesday, 1 October, 19:30, Kikar HaMedina, Tel Aviv

Olmert accompanied Netanyahu on his last visit to the US. He decided not to go this time because his presence was less important, and because it would have forced him to cancel his attendance at a number of events in Jerusalem, the sources said. Bill Hutman

Senior Dole advisers flay Clinton's foreign policy

i and and a second and a second a

WASHINGTON (Reuter) - Republican presidential nominee Bob Dole's senior advisers attacked President Bill Clinton's foreign policy yesterday as being to disarray.

Their assessment - an unusually blunt one. even in the context of party politics – was made on the eve of the Middle East summit in Washington.

"I think that is fair to say that everyone shares the view that American foreign policy is in a serious state of disarray, with one failure after another ubserved over the last three weeks and, before that, mooths," former United Natinns ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick said.

Kirkpatrick, former Assistant Secretary of Defense Richard Perle and former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger attacked Clinton's foreign policy at a news conference after meeting with Dole.

Other former Republican administration nfficials, including firmer secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and George Shultz, former defense secretary Dick Cheney, and former under secretary of state Paul Wolfowitz, took part in the meeting through a telephone conference call.

The news conference seemed designed to try to minimize any positive political reaction Clinton might reap from calling Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat and Jnrdan's King Hussein to Washington to discuss the Middle East peace process.

Dole was not at the news conference, but Kirkpatrick said, "Senator Dole, who is always concerned about America's position in the world and our security, is deeply concerned about [foreign policy].

Schlesinger said there was "concern about a pattern in which initiatives of the administratioo or responses by the administratioo tend tn blnw up, and that each of these is initially proclaimed as a foreign pulicy success." He cited Somalia, Northern Ireland and Iraq as well as the Middle East peace process.

Perle criticized policy toward Iraq, saying its leader, Saddam Hussein, "has emerged far stronger than before."

Asked bow Dole would deal differently with the violence in Israel, Kirkpatrick said he believed that "Clinton has engaged in shocking kinds of intervention in Israeli political life .... that they have brought pressure to bear on Israel repeatedly in the course of the famnus peace process," and had elaimed credit for earlier successes that resulted from negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians.

Perle said, "What I think Senator Dole would like to hear from the administration is a clear declaration that the violence must be ended unconditionally and that we will oot apply pressure nr demand concessions from the Israelis, who are the victims of this violence, as a condition for ending this violence, and I don't think he has beard this."

On Sunday, Dole issued a statement saying the "violence is a painful reminder that too many differences have been glossed over in earlier stages of the peace process."

"Neither the United States nor any other party can impose a solution," he said of the summit. "The role of the United States should, as always, be that of friend and facilitator."

Pope to have appendix removed.

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) - Pope John Paul will undergo surgery next week to remove his appendix, the Vatican announced yesterday. It said all papal audiences would be suspended from October 7 "as a result of the holy father's hospitalization."

The brief statement did not specify which day the Polish-born pontiff, 76, would be admitted to Rome's Gemelli Hospital oor when the operation would take place.

Chief Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro-Valls said the pope would probably announce details himself in his midday address on Sunday after leading a beatification service at St Peter's. Vatican sources said they expected the pontiff to go to Gemelli on Sunday evening.

Way ahead in UK polls, Labor conference looks forward to election

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) -With an eleconn nn more than six months away, the Labor Party opened its annual conference on Major Monday huoyed by yet another opinico poll showing it ahead of the governing Conservatives.

"Labor is preparing for government," Gordon Brown, the party's spokesman on taxation and spending, told delegates.

But few in the party believe they are as far ahead as the polls say. The last election, which Labor won in the opinion polls and lost at the ballot box, proved how fickle opinion can be.

A Gallup poll published in The Daily Telegraph yesterday showed Labor as the chnice of 54 percent, compared with 27 percent for the governing Conservatives.

The lead of 27 percentage points, while comfortable, was down six points from the first of October, Gallup said.

Other polls show Labor with a more modest lead, though still in double figures. Regardless, no government has been re-elected after being so far behind for so long in opinion polls. As the conference opened yesterday, delegates frequently called it "the last conference in opposition," after 17 years nf Cooservative Party government under Margaret Thatcher and John

Under the slogan, "New Labor, New Life for Britain," the party spelled out key points of attack in the coming campaign: it promises smaller classes in schools, tough action on crime, shorter waiting lists for treatment from the National Health Service, more jobs for the young and a strong economy.

Brown spelled out some of the differences the country chuld expect from a Labor government: a national minimum wage, a special tax on the utilities sold into private numership in recent years, and a national program of oursery education and child care.

The Conservatives hold their conference next week. The annual gatherings give the parties extended exposure on daytime television, and their debates usually dominate the news for a week. Anthony Kiog, professor of government at Essex University. commented that the the latest Gallup survey showed that voters like the Labor Party more than they did five years ago, before Major led his party in a fourth coosecutive election victory. Since that election defeat, Neil Kinnock resigned as Labor leader, his successor John Smith died in 1994, and Tony Blair has shoved the party further toward the center "the radical center," as he calls

Labor has jettisoned its old commitment to nationalizing industry, it has curbed the power of trade unions within the party, and it talks about the necessity of bolding the line on government spending and inflation.

Blair has all hut changed the party's name, referring constantly to "New Labor."

Asked whether they believe Labor has its heart in the right place and would do a good job in government, 40 percent said "yes" in the latest Gallup survey, up from 34 percent in 1991.

Thirty-six percent thought the party had its heart in the right place hut would probably make a mess of it in government.

Only 11 percent thought Labor had its heart in the wrong place. That's bad news for the Conservatives, who recently ran a pnster shnwing demnnic eyes lurking behind the smiling face of Tooy Blair.

On eve of US elections, Clinton hosts no-risk summit

ANALYSIS HILLEL KUTTLER

WASHINGTON - Five weeks from today. Presideot Bill Clinton's political fate will be decided by the American voting public.

But with 35 days to go, few analysts see what is arguably the most crucial summit meeting of the Middle East peace process to be as vital to Clinton's future in office.

The risks for Clinton appear to be low, and he might, cooversely, have been more of a political target for not weighing in and offering to bost today's summit involv-ing Prime Minister Binyamio Netanyahu and PA President Yasser Arafat.

He could have theo faced accusations of refusing to dirty his hands, of playing it safe with a view toward November 5 by ducking a foreign pulicy quandary while the shooting continued, rather than bringing the power of his office to bear on the situation.

That would have been a bitter pill for Clinton to swallow given his central role in encouraging the viewer yesterday: I am sure he peace and his convening of would prefer that this crisis not March's anti-terrorism conference come along at this particular

ROME (AP) - The court that German soldiers. ordered freedom for former Nazi MOSCOW (AP) - Russia's security chief Alexander Lebed and Minister Viktor Prime Chernomyrdin met yesterday to discuss peace efforts in Chechnya ahead of talks later this week with separatist leaders.

Lebed briefed Chernomyrdin on progress on implementing his peace plan in Chechnya and on his talks with regional leaders in Russia's northern Caucasus region last week.

French Scientology president on trial for involuntary homicide

LYON, France (AP) - Pressed by a government crackdown on religious cults and sects, a trial opened yesterday for a Church of Scientology leader accused in the 1988 snicide of a follower.

Twenty-three other French members of the US-besed church are being tried on unre-lated charges of fraud and complicity. Prosecutors contend they manipulated people to join the church and give money.

"When someone has difficulties in life, Scientologists teach him how to put his life in order," Mazier said.

Dr. Jean-Marie Abgrall, an expert to testify in the case, said the treatment was aimed at "facilitating the conditioning and manipulation of members hy the Scientologists."

Pressure has mounted on the French government to crack down on sects and cults since

December 16, when the charred bodies of 16 members of the Swiss-based Order of the Solar Temple were found lying in a star formation in an Alpine clearing.

Investigators say not all of the cult disciples died willingly, and the victims included three small children.

A parliamentary report issued in January included the Church of Scientology on a list of 173 cults it said should be tracked. Scientology also was singled out among 28 cults the government said were recruiting children.

The Church of Scientology, founded in Los Angeles in 1954 by L. Ron Hubbard, also has become embroiled in controversy in neighboring Germany.

Bulwarks against violence

arrives in Washington today in the position of a wrestler who, having bad his opponent on the ropes for the first few rounds. suddenly finds himself on the mat bimself, a second away from being pinned. The bad new is that in this match, if either side "wins," both will lose in long run. The good news is that, unlike in a wrestling match, there is a way for both sides to win.

It is bard to argue with the prime minister's assertion that the Palestinian Authority must not be rewarded for its massive violation of Oslo's first commandment - thou shalt not use violence. Yet while candidate Netanyahu would have called for an immediate suspension, if not cancellation of Oslo in response to last week's events, Prime Minister Netanyahu found himself on the phone with Yasser Arafat, requesting an immediate meeting. Far from boycotting negotiations, Netanyahu officials have leaked that they want to "accelerate" the process.

The fact is that the Palestinians in general, and Arafat in particular, have achieved everything through violence. The PLO became recognized as the "sole legitimate representatives of the Palestinian people" in the eyes of Palestinians and the world through violence. Then, by committing to end this violence, the PLO achieved first Israel's recognition, then Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Palestinian population centers of Judea and Samaria.

The significance of the recent violence is that from now on the Palestinians will use the threat of violence, implicitly or explicitly, to achieve their next goal, the establishment of a Palestinian state. The Israeli Left believes that the vicious circle of violence and concessions can be brokeo at this stage, while the Right believes that a Palestinian state would continue the cycle to the next stage - the triggering of a general Arab war against Israel.

The Left may be overconfident that Palestinian aspirations can be satisfied with a state, even it were not truncated in the way most Labor Party leaders might envision it. But the. Right is mistaken if it thinks it can break the vicious circle by simply refusing to make concessions, effectively exiting the Oslo framework.

The vicious circle can be broken by address-

RIME Minister Binyamin Netanyahu ing one critical component: the ability to credihly blame Israel for the Palestinian resort to violence. If Palestinian violence cannot be blamed on Israel, it will not be rewarded.

What is currently pinning Netanyahu to the mat is the fact that Palestinian violence is being blamed on him, not the Palestinians.

The only way to delegitimize and thereby prevent future Palestinian violence is for Israel to be seen in the eyes of most Israelis, including the Center-Left, as doing as much as reasonably possible to achieve peace.

If Netanyahu wisbes to "accelerate" the process, this is a welcome sign that he realizes that oot just Palestinians but also Israelis must see that Israel is aggressively attempting toresolve all outstanding interim status issues, including Hebron.

Further, the Netanyahu government should communicate a vision of the future to Palestinians that includes clear carrots and sticks that together provide a clear incentive to prevent violence and continue the negotiating process.

At the same time, Israel's team in Washington should seek to build multiple firewalls against renewed threat of Palestinian Authority forces firing at Israelis. Arafat should be pressed to forswear incitement to violence, and the types of incitement should be clearly defined. The Palestinian Police must not stand by while Palestinians rush Israeli soldiers. Police that initiated shooting should be punished. And finally, the Palestinians should understand that Israeli control over Palestinian-held areas will be expanded if Palestinian refusal or inability to control the situation threatens Israelis.

The United States can play a critical role in resuscitating the process by accepting Israel's commitment to moving forward as quickly as possible, while pressing the Palestinians to abandon the threat of violence and build as many bulwarks against violence, as possible.

Netanyahu is banking on the possibility that idriving a hard bargain and creating the percep-d tion and reality of progress are not mutually exclusive.

If he is right, the result could be a peace process that is more stable and has brighter long term prospects, for both sides, than it did before.

A deadly philosophy

F the shooting war between Arab and Jew on the West Bank had spread, responsibili-ty would in substantial part have belonged to those governments, politicians and journalists who immediately found the Israelis guilty, without inquiry or anything that could be called thought. The condemnations of Israel and support for Palestinian gum-fighters uphold the right of any group with a grievance to kill civilians, police and soldiers of a government that offends them by its action or existence.

This is precisely the doctrine of terrorism, domestie and international. It perverts the right of protest to the right to murder, from Oklahoma City to Pan Am 103 to Ramallah. It is moral equivalence essential for the terrorist to believe, snicidal for potential victims to accept. There is a price for Western acceptance. If Palestinians have the right to shoot Israeli police and soldiers, why don't Palestinians of neighboring Jordan have the right to start another revolution against the foreign dynasty of King and Israel oot rescued the king. Almost every Arab government rules despite its people, not because of them. Morally and politically these governments have given their domestic dissidents the right to kill them. If the US warns Israel against creating "new issues" by opening another gate, the various US militia have the right to use guns if Washington orders provocative new taxes or regulations. Already, American passivity about the militias' disobedience of

And considering the largerthan-life reputations of the men who invented and attended the periodic summit conferences held in Casablanca, Cairo, Teheran, Yaita and Potsdam, these momentous events really did seem to be shaping the future of all mankind.

But the principals attending the Middle Eastern summit hosted by President Clinton in Washington lack the stature of FDR. Winston Churchill, Josef Stalin and Harry S Truman (allowing for the admission of Chiang Kai-Shek as a onetime summiteer).

The Big Three who led the US, Great Britain and the Soviet Union during World War II were intent on defeating Nazi Germany and afterward, the Japanese Empire. With that constant objective in mind, they were able to outline, negotiate and determine the post-war map of the world.

In contrast, Clinton lacks the charisma of FDR or the singlemindedness of Truman. #### LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LOW-INTENSITY CONFLICTS

Sir. - Your editorial of September 12 carried a commentary concerning public attitudes toward army service, especially reserve duty. The writer noted that some attribute the increasingly negative public atti-tudes to the "fact" that, an "existential" threat has not confronted Israel since the Yom Kippur War.

That "fact" is too important and too flawed to go unquestioned. The threat of a major conventional war has receded, at least for now. Unforfunately, a new threat - low-intensity warfare - has emerged. South Lebanon is the current playground and while they may take longer, low-intensity conflicts can be and have been as deadly as the higherintensity varieties. In short, given Israel's size and location, any credible military threat, including those presented by practitioners of lowintensity conflicts, can become 'existential."

Defense intellectuals in Israel have recognized the threat shift and questioned the nation's current defense structure. In general, they argue for a defense establishment on the American or British model. They nay be right. At minimum, they and their ideas should be heard.

Domestic politics drove America's adoption of the active duty and reserve All Volunteer Force. Initially resisted by the military, it proved to have been the right move for the wrong reasons. Israel, facing a less complicated but potentially more deadly situation than that confronting the world's only (for now) superpower, presently has ample reason to re-examine its defense structure. The outcome, whatever it is, could well be case of doing the right things for the right reasons. Too many unfriendly parties

AL JOLSON SOCIETY

Sir, - I recently discovered the existence of the International Al Jojson Society and was wondering whether there are any "Jolie" fans living in Israel.

I have copies of a few of his records and would like to expand my collection. Anyone interested should contact me at tel, 09-433189. fax 09-912225 or c/o P.O. Box 164, Kfar Sava.

Sir, - Peaceniks can'l vel face the fact that Oslo's delusions and lies are bringing war. Mark A. Heller's "Risk of a war no one wants" (September 20) is a case in point and academic theory as its worst. He shows astonishing incomprehension of Assad's and general Middle East thinking.

Heller's suppositions (a) that "reassurance" could have resolved tensions of 1914 without World War L (b) that Chamberlain's folly aimed to avoid such "mistakes" in 1938 and (c) that Syria's present sabrerattling can be pacified by such mythical "reassurance" today, are dangerous nonsense in Israel's present dire peril. Even more dangerous is his assertion that Assad and Syria are "entirely different" from Hitler and the Nazis. Any differences are less than the violent likenesses. Assad, whose aim is to destroy Israel, not to recover the Golan, as Heller assumes, is point man for an Islamist hatred of lews as demonic and visceral as Hitler's. Contrary to his claim that "the relative resources are entirely different," Assad's gas weapon, forged by Alois Brunner's Nazi industrialists to finish the Jews, with Islam's armies behind him, gives him resources fully comparable to Hitler's in 1939. Contrary to his wishful thinking that there is "little

BETRAYAL

Sir, - Every day we hear statements from Arab countries, Western nations and our own teftists pressuring Israel to live up to the Oslo agreement, namely to turn Hebron over to the Palestinian Authority. What is not even mentioned is the fact that Arafat has not fulfilled over a dozen agreements he made with Israel. What is even more disappointing is that while Netanyahu, prior to his election, made Israel's fulfillment of the Oslo agreement contingent on Arafat's fulfillment of his Oslo obligations, one hardly hears this anymore from the Likud leader. After the 1992 elections, it was the Likud which accused the Rabin government of not living up to its pre-election promises and now we are writnessing a similar pattern from Netanyahu and his government. The above is but one out of many examples we could cite of how Netanyahu has betrayed thousands of people who voted for him. JOSHUA J. ADLER Jerusalem.

to Palestine. Each government will have to decide for itself bow many people it can absorb and support.

And if the Palestinians really wish to absorb a million refugees from camps in Lebanon, Syria and Jordan into their state, at the expense of their standard of living, so what?

Netanyahu has pointed out that there are autonomous nationalistic entities in many countries, all striving for independence, saying that if these were all accepted there would be 180 more countries in the world. So what? (A cynic might say: Great - 180 new positions for Likud ambassadors.) But comparing these to the Palestinians is false. It's based on the fallacy that the Palestinians have "autonomy." The Oslo accords do not mention autonomy hut self-government, which is worlds away.

A cynic might say Netanyahu's words were intended to pave the way to accepting such a point of view, that what he was in effect saying was: With such a state, one could coexist. The devil isn't so terrible.

Allowing for the time and effort consumed by photo oppor-junities, festive dinners and tedious news conferences, the two days allocated by the White House to the Middle East summit are unlikely to be enough to come to grips with these complex. problems, not to mention solve them. The most that can be expected is their referral to a subordinate negotiating framework whose participants may be required to report their conclusions to a subsequent Middle East summit.

There is a grave danger in resorting to a high-powered summit conference under the personal auspices of the American chief executive.

If there is another grave break-down on the ground, where else can the contending parties go? If . Clinton cannot get the Middle East peace process back oo track, who can? Presidents Yelisin and Chirac, Prime Minister Major or UN Secretary-General Boutros Boutros Ghali?

Perhaps it is worth pondering the fact that the Russians were never even mentioned as candidates for the Washington summit, despite their official role as cosponsors of the Madrid Conference, the historic conclave that appears to have been totally abandoned by this fractious region's contentious leaders.

However it's always good to hear the greatest rock band in the world perform their craft. And that's what they were, despite the accolades given to the Stooes and the Beatles.

Surprisingly, given the public fascination with the '60s and '70s and the multitude of documentaries on the subject from The Beatles Anthology to American Public TV's History of Rock and Roll. The Who have unjustly been overlooked and there has been a marked lack of recognition for their unique contributions.

It was The Who who were perfectors of the fine art of the concept album, and who were among the first to break out of the traditional British R&B standard instrument mold. They possessed perhaps the best drummer and bass player in rock history in Keith Moon and John Entwhistle, and Pete Townshend's guitar pyrotechnics were not far behind. Now most of the students come from the music academies or are soldiers who enjoy an Excellent Musician status." Each evening, after the daily classes are over, teachers and students gather for informal concerts which are not open to the general public. Some of the teachers will be performing in the official closing concert, on October 8 at the Tel Aviv Museum, which of course is open to the public.

Shekel loses 0.9 percent to robust dollar

Jerusalem Post Staff and news agencies

THE shekel weakened sharply against the dollar and basket of currencies in mixed, volatile trading yesterday following political unrest and the rise of the dollar against the mark, dealers said.

The representative rate for the dollar was 3.2200, a 0.gg percent loss for the shekel against 3.1920 on Friday. The basket of currencies closed at 3.595g shekels against 3.5679 on Friday.

The shekel's behavior, while clearly stemming from the recent unrest, also reflected prevaleot trends in forex markers worldwide, where the greenback has crossed the 111 yen mark, thus marking a two-and-a-half year high against the Japanese curreo-

cy. The dollar's resurgence abroad was accelerated by the G7 industrialized powers' declared commitment for a strong dollar, which in turn reflects a recognition that the American curreocy is currently the healthiest amoog mark at 2.1093 sbekels per mark the world's leading economies, against 2.0963 oo Friday.

and can therefore better sustain the kind of anti-growth pressures ordinarily generated by excessively stroog currencies. In Tel Aviv, however, the dollar's resurgeoce was clearly related to a political atmosphere of uncertainty, particularly hav-ing come after a long period in which the shekel was exceptionally solid.

"Tradiog was very volatile today and activity was very high," said a dealer at Bank Hapoalim. "The dollar rose to 3.2470 shekels because of the political tensioo and the rise of the dollar abroad. By midday the dollar started back falling for no evident reasoo. Investors are very confused. People were buying dollars because of the clashes, but others started selling ooce the dollar rose." he said.

> While the two and their surrogates trade verbal blows, their respective corporations are conducting a behind-the-scenes battle that could wind up in court.

At issue is whether Time Warner, the US's second largest cable operator, will carry Murdoch's soon to be launched competitor to CNN, which is becoming part of the Time Warner empire. Time Warner says no, and in a brief encounter with reporters last Thursday, Turner accused Murdoch of using his newspapers as weapons in a media war, saying: Talking to Murdoch is like confronting the late fuhrer." He also called the reporters who work for Murdoch, "yellow journalists."

Murdoch later told The Wall Street Journal, "Ted Turner will say much worse before it's through. I believe what [Joseph] Kennedy said: 'Don't get mad, get even."

But on Friday, a top executive at Murdoch's N Corporation. decided to get mad at Turver's comments.

Despite the local slump, Katsav will later this month appear along with his Jordanian counterpart at the American Society of Travel Agents in Bangkok.

Commenting on the situation, Rafi Baeri, sales and marketing manager of the Radisson Moriah chain, offered an optimistic note. He said that if there is no further violence, the industry could pull through the winter without suffering too much damage. Industry sources added that cancelations were more commoo among Jewish tourists than among non-Jewish ones.

Previous periods of intensely televised unrest in and around Israel, most notably the Lebanon War and the intifada, resulted in prolonged slumps in tourism to Israel.

Murdoch plans to launch his 24hour-a-day cable news channel on October 7 and has billed it as a conservative alternative to what he perceives as Turner's liberal CNN, a cable operation he has often publicly stated he would love to buy and make the centerpiece of a media empire that spans the globe.

Newcastle hangs on to beat Villa

LONDON (AP) – Newcastle took a 3-1 lead and then despite a man advantage for half the match - was forced to hold on for a 4-3 victory yesterday over Aston Villa to move into second place in the Premier League.

Newcastle, which again got into trouble with a leaky defense, gave up a hat trick to Aston Villa's Dwight Yorke that overshadowed two goals by Newcastle's bot striker Les Ferdinand.

The victory at home gives Newcastle 18 points in eight games, just hehind Liverpool with 20 in the same number of mntches. Arsenal is alone in third with 17 and two-time champion defending cham Manchester United has 16.

Yorkc gave Aston Villa 1-0 lead in the fourth minute, but Ferdinand answered a minute later with a goal to tie and then made it 2-1 in the 22nd.

Alan Shearer, who moved to Newcastle this season on a record-£15-million transfer from Blackhurn, made it 3-1 in the 38th. Newcastle seemed to be home free minutes later when Aston Villa's Mark Draper was sent off in the 43rd for his second reckless challenge.

Newcastle dominated play early in the second half until Yorke cut the lead to 3-2 in the 59th. Villa pressed for the next several minutes and looked set to tie despite the man disadvantage, a raily knocked down when Steve Howey put Newcastle abead 4-2 in the 67th.

Yorke again rallied Aston Villa two minutes later with his third goal of the match against a Newcastle defense that was porous despite the extra man. Aston Villa has 12 points in eight games

BOSTON (AP) - Kevin Kennedy was fired yesterday after his second season as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

His dismissal came one day after the Red Sox completed a season in which they had the best record in the American League in August and September (38-18), but missed the playoffs.

Kennedy, 42, managed the Red Sox to the AL East title in 1995 after he was fired by the Texas Rangers following the 1994 season.

Despite the strong finish, the Red Sox never recovered from their 2-12 start, the worst in club history, as Kennedy juggled 55 different players on a roster con-stantly shuffled by general manag-

"Jim and I have had a personal and professional association for over 30 years," general manger Lee Thomas said. "During that span we have shared many good times and many bad times. I think everyone knows where 1996 stands. For the good of the organization, a change is in order."

Philadelphia used the disabled list a club-record 23 times this season, with the 17 players who spent time on the list tying a club record. Aside from Daulton and Dykstra, eight Phillies were lost for the season because of injuries.

Philadelphia tumbled into last place in the NL East on June 18 and never got out. The Phillies were close to a 100-loss pace before going 13-13 in September. The 54-year-old Fregosi managed the last six seasons at Philadelphia.

He guided the Phils to victory over the Atlanta Braves in the National League 1993 Championship Series and a trip to the World Series, where the Phillies fell to Toronto. Since then the Phillies labored through three consecutive losing seasons.

Swiss Indoors yesterday with a straight sets win over Germany's Hendrik Dreekmann.

The winner of two Grand Slam titles a year since 1993, Sampras was limited to one this season. An early exit at the Australian Open followed by a semifinal loss to Yevgeny Kafelnikov at the French and a quarter-final defeat of eventual champion Richard Krajicek at Wimbledon prompted talk of a slump, even after his win in the US Open.

"Everybody keeps asking about my lousy year," said Sampras, shaking his head. "But I've never thought it was a bad year. It's been a good year, a great year. In some ways I've surpassed myself.

"Maybe with a bit better preparation I could've done a bit better at the French Open, and Wimbledon was a bit of a disappointment.

"But the US Open was great. If I hadn't won it maybe my year wouldn't have been great. But you can't have a year like last year, year in and year out." While it has been business as usual for Sampras on the court, he has had problems off it. Early in the year

"I am not anemic," stated Sampras, his usual patience visibly wearing thin. "This anemic thing is a bunch of nonsense. Whoever started this rumor was just speculating on why I was tired.

"I think what happened was that it was a very hot day and I ran out of fluids and minerals. That's it. Apart from that it's just been lack of conditioning."

The Swiss Indoors was Sampras's first tournament since winning the US Open and he took the two-week lay-off for a much needed rest.

The 25-year-old American is beaded back to the US but will return to Europe for tournaments in Stuttgart and Paris as well as the ATP World Championships in Hanover in November.

"After the World Championships, when the season is over, I'll have time to rest and time to train." Sampras said.

"After Tim (Gullikson) passed away, 1 didn't do much. But now I will take my time off to train on and off court and get the base back that 1'd lost. Then it'll be a new year."

Muster to argue Brazil 'fan flap' before ITF VIENNA (AP) Thomas

Muster, the world No. 3 tennis star who stormed off court during a Davis Cup tie with Brazil. will go to London next week to argue his case to the International Tennis Federation, a top Austrian tennis official said yesterday. Muster left the court when he and his partner were 0-2, 15-30 down in fifth set of the the douhles against Brazil last weekend in Sao Paulo.

The Austrian complained that rowdy fans had cursed, spat, threw things at him and blinded him with a mirror, and security was insufficient for him to continue playing. He said the fans behaved "like animals."

The Austrians forfeited the match, and the tie, 1-4, when they also refused to play the remaining two singles.

Muster and his coach, Ronald Leitgeh, will be among Austrians appearing before the four-person ITF committee that will discuss the case October 7, said Christian Ransmayr, vicepresident of the Austrian Tennis Federation.

"We are preparing to fight," Ransmayr said.

Muster has already been fined about $8,000 by the ITF for leaving the court and making an indecent gesture. Austria has appealed that decision.

Ransmayr said he has spent the past week collecting evidence. He contacted Germans for details of their the Davis Cop fracas in a match in Rio de Janeiro in 1992, when Brazil was fined.

Leitgeh has been in touch with the Italians, who also had trouble when they played a Davis Cup tie in Brazil

In addition, Ransmayr hopes to get hold of amateur video shot by an Austrian fan that may show more of the action against Muster than TV pictures of the match.

"It's not that I want something done against Brazil," Ransmayr said. "I want something done for Austria."

"The conditions there were really bad, caused in part by an overworked umpire. This was a climate in which it was impossihie to play," he added.

He said he had spoken with the head referee, Antonio Marques of Portugal, during the match, saying "Yon should do something, Thomas is afraid." Ransmayr said Marques told him, "I know, but what can I

Brazilian tennis officials said Muster was a poor sport and dismissed his claim that he felt threatened as nonsense.

When the Austrians left the court, "we all had things thrown at us," said Ransmayr, who will be among the Austrians talking to the 1TF next week.

still a chance to see plays like Arabic Dream from Symphony and, most appropriately for the occasion, the Acre Theater Center or Agnon Cabaret from the Amboha Group, two of 12 plays competing for cash At the same time in the adjacent Sherover Theatre, Drizes Hanoch Levin's mordant, despair-driven comedies first ravished theatergoers in the 1970s, and productions of his works in the ensuing years have added to his mystique.

Hefer: is the story of a terminal loser who threatens suicide because he's not invited to a family wedding, is one of the best.

The Cameri Theater revival, directed by Ran Ronen, stars longtime Levin specialists Tikki Dayan, Yitzhak Hizkiya, Yosef Carmon and, in the title role, Ya'acov Cohen. Tonight on the Cameri main stage at 8:30. (Hebrew with simultaneous translation into English.)

Police probe torching of Amir kindergarten

RAINE MARCUS

HERZLIYA police are investigating the cause of a fire which broke out at Geula Amir's kindergarten early yesterday, apparently as a result of a firebomb thrown by an unknown perpetrator.

Severe damage was caused to the kindergarten, owned by the mother of assassin Yigal Amir, who is serving a life term plus six years for the murder of late prime minister Yitzhak Rabin.

No one was injured. The Amir family alerted firefighters and police. This is the second time a firebomb has been hurled at the kindergarten. Minimal damage only was caused the first time.

An anonymous caller phoned police yesterday morning, telling them this was only the beginning of "the treatment" the Amir family would receive.

Report: PM trying to replace IBA head

PRIME Minister Binyamin Netanyahu is trying to shorten the term of Israel Broadcasting Authority Director-General Mordechai Kirschenbaum due to his left-leaning political opinions, Army Radio reported yesterday.

At a meeting with right-wing intellectuals yesterday, Netanyahu was told that Kirschenbaum should not be allowed to remain in the position due to his political stance. Dr. Yuval Stintz complained that in a radio interview, Kirschenbaum had said that most members of the media are left-wing because the left is more easygoing and open to ideas than the right.

Netanyahu reportedly replied that Kirschenbaum's appointment runs for two more years and that he has formed several committees to investigate if there is a legal way to shorten it,

Kirschenbaum said yesterday that he plans to leave the post after com-pleting his term. He said his words had been taken out of context and disioned by right-wing organizations as part of a campaign to create a one-sided media. He said he believes the press should be objective. (Itim)

Swiss MPs order review of Nazi dealings, fate of Jewish assets

BERNE (Reuter) - Switzerland's lower bouse of parliament yesterday voted for a sweeping bistorical study of Swiss financial dealings with Nazi Germany and the fate of Jewish wealth deposited before, during, and after World War II.

The Natiooal Council endorsed a decree put forward by the cabinet, sending the measure for fioal approval to the upper chamber of parliament. The 162-0 vote showed support across the political spec-trum and iodicated fioal approval is likely.

The decree creates a commission of experts empowered to lift tight bank secrecy rules for a historical accounting of Swiss commerce with Nazi Germany, for whom Swiss gold purchases were a crucial source of funds. It will also review how much wealth was deposited into Swiss banks and other financial companies by Jews and other victims of Nazi persecution, and also whether Switzerland has done enough to identifyand locate the lost assets of those killed in the Holocaust. The move follows a recent bout of specu-latioo, fuelled by newly declassified US wartime archives, that Switzerland could still be hoarding Nazi gold.

The commission, which could start work as early as April, is separate from an interoational panel set up by Swiss banks and world Jewish groups last May to search for any lost Holocaust accounts and help return the assets to their rightful owners.

gating a scam involving at least one man who allegedly enticed males to work for tempting sums of money

Police believe that around 150 men paid a man, who has apparently fled to Europe, NIS 600 for a portfolio of photographs, ostensibly to be shown to women wishing for their services.

ago, a man nico a complaint with police against a man, who called himself Uri and told him that his escort service served around 1,000 women who were willing to pay $350 an hour ward. for a handsome escort. The complainant paid Uri NIS 600 and was sent to a photograph-ic studio which prepared photos, to be displayed with others in an album to be shown to potential clients. When, after more than a month had passed and the com-plainant had not heard from Uri, nor had he been referred to clients, he phoned the number he had been given, but was told that Uri had disappeared. #### NEWS IN BRIEF

Gasoline prices rise

Petroleum prices go up today. The price of 96 and 95 (unleaded) octane gasoline both increased by one agora, to NIS 2.96 and NIS 2.88 per liter, respectively. The prices of diesel fuel and home heating oil are up 4.9 percent. The increases were attributed to the price of crude oil in the Mediterranean basin and the change in the shekel-dollar exchange rate. Jerusalem Post Stag Jerusalem Post Staff

Song judges decide not to travel to Israel Three of the jury members have pulled out of the Leonard Bernstein International Oratorio and Song Competition because of the current level of tension in the area. They are the late conductor's daughter, Nina, whose place as the non-voting jury chairman has been takeo by Gideon Paz; and singers Christa Ludwig and Pbyllis Curtin. Singer Betty Allen and Dennis Helmrich, who is from the Tanglewood Music Center, will take their place. Helen Koye Hizbullah denies holding Ron Arad Hizbullah yesterday denied a German report that it is holding IAF navigator Ron Arad.

"The report is totally baseless. Hizbullah knows nothing about Israeli pilot Ron Arad," the group said. "Hizbullah is interested in determining the fate of Arad because this will help put an end to the tragedy of hundreds of detainees in the enemy's prisons in occupied Lebanese and Palestinian territories."

The German news magazine Focus said Sunday that Arad was apparently still alive and held by Hizbullah. Reu Reuter

So far, 13 other men have flico similar complaints, but police believe that hundreds may have been victims of the scam and are too embarrassed to come for-

The investigation disclosed that Uri also borrowed money from three photo studios, to which he referred his would-be employees.

Murder trial of US national opens in Haifa ESTHER HECHT

THE trial of U.S. oational Arvin Johnson, accused of killing his former girlfriend, Haifa resident Ganit Tzinman, in February, opened in Haifa District Court yesterday.

Prosecutor Nurit Gruber attempted to use the expert testimony of Dr. Yehuda Hiss, head of the National Forensic Institute in Abu Kabir, to prove the multiple stab wounds on the victim were not consistent with the defendant's version of events.

Johnson, who has pleaded not guilty, claimed he had hugged Tzinman while holding a knife and that a sudden movement of her head had caused a fatal gash on her neck.

Hiss testified there were cuts on the victims hands, indicating she had tried to defend herself by grabbing the knife. He added that the fatal wounds were typical puncture wounds, rather than a gash caused by the side of the blade.

Defense attorney Hezi Harlaff cross-examined Hiss in an attempt to establish that Johnson had tried to commit suicide at the time of the killing, as the defendant claimed. He testified that the hospital report included a diagnosis of attempted suicide and that the wounds on the defendant could. have been self inflicted, but said he couldn't rule out their having been caused during the alleged murder. Police Insp. Yebuda Manan the tified that when be visited the defeodant in hospital a day after Police Insp. Yehuda Maman testhe alleged murder, Johnson gave him a note in English saying, "I didn't intend to hit her, certainly not to kill her." Johnson sat through most of the testimony with his head down. resting on the metal bars of thedock. A translator rendered the proceedings into English for him. The trial continues today with the prosecution summation.
